This is a guide for students who plan to transfer to Ferris State University. This guide is not intended to be a contract with Ferris. The information on this guide is subject to change; students should contact Ferris to keep informed of changes (see “contact” above). Final responsibility for verifying all transfer information lies with the student.

CAREER PATH

With more than 80 percent of the printing companies employing less than 50 people, most companies are not able to have dedicated staff or personnel to manage their computer networks. A graduate from the New Media Printing and Publishing program is not only trained in electronic page layout and imposition, color image editing and digital print pre-press workflow, they bring another level of skills to the workforce. Web page design and authoring, Java programming language, computer network and file server maintenance and administration, digital press output and advanced digital workflow training make graduates from the New Media Printing and Publishing program highly desirable employees for the future of the printing industry.
