2009 Team Shootouts

The Ferris State University men's basketball program is proud to offer our 2009 Team Shootouts.

The purpose of our shootouts is to provide coaches and their teams with the opportunity to develop the essential basketball skills. The camp provides three very highly-competitive games on day one along with at least three more such contests on the second day. Our double-elimination tourney format gives coaches and players an outstanding opportunity to develop their teams in a competitive environment.

As evidence of our camp success, at least 13 teams alone that attended our shootouts in 2007 went on to claim district titles in 2008. Many more won conference championships.

We offer outstanding facilities and a crew of highly-skilled professionals, which makes this one of the top shootouts in the state of Michigan on an annual basis.

We hope you will join us for another outstanding summer in 2009 at the Ferris State University Basketball Shootouts!

"My teams have attended the "Building a Championship" Team Camp and have taken advantage of the shootouts prior to it for the last four summers. It is a great balance of games and instruction from the FSU staff. The practice time Bill Sall takes with your team is the best hour of any camp I have been to in my 20 plus years of coaching. You can not get any more for your money at any other camp."
