COMPETENCY IMPLEMENTATION PLAN (CIP)
SELF AND SOCIETY

Date:

Course prefix, number, and title:

Briefly describe how this course fulfills the operational definition of the Self and Society core competency at Ferris State University:

SOC1: Self – Students using social science theory and methods will be able to describe conceptions of self, others, and social systems.
How will this be implemented in class?	How will achievement be evaluated?

SOC2: Society – Students using social science theory and methods will be able to evaluate human interactions within relationships, social groups, organizations, communities, and institutions
How will this be implemented in class?	How will achievement be evaluated?

SOC3: Social Control and Agency of Individuals – Students using social science theory and methods will be able to critically analyze the bidirectional effects of various social contexts on the behavior of individuals, and the effect that individuals have on society.
How will this be implemented in class?	How will achievement be evaluated?

SOC4: Social Science Theory and Methodology – Students will be able to apply social science thory and methods and ethics to better understand individuals and society and their interconnections.
How will this be implemented in class?	How will achievement be evaluated?