General Education Data Reporting Training For Faculty

This semester we will be systematically collecting student learning data for the first time in our revised General Education program. The procedure involves the completion of standardized data workbooks and emailed assignments from TracDat. To familiarize everyone with this new process, a series of training sessions is being offered at FLITE. These workshops will provide:

1) background information concerning the overall workflow and its purposes,
2) hands-on practice using sample datasets and assignments, and
3) time for consultation and assistance with regard to data collection and reporting in your specific courses.

Participants are encouraged to bring a laptop and current course data (if available); desktop computers are also available in the workshop rooms. Faculty need not stay for the entire two hours – drop in as your schedules permit. Light refreshments will be provided.
