What's Your 'Real Age'?

For the past fifteen or so years, every fall on or near my birthday I have spent forty-five minutes answering the detailed questionnaire about my health and habits at what used to be realage.com, now a part of sharecare.com. After the site has analyzed the information, it announces my "real age." This year, on my 70th birthday, it announced that my "real age" was 62 years and two months.

At this point you may be asking why I credit this information. The general answer is that it passes the sniff test: years of web surfing have sharpened what Ernest Hemingway would call my shockproof BS detector. And even though the low number is flattering, I am inclined to trust this estimate of my mental and physical health because it is grounded in actual data – the drugs I take, the amount of sleep I get, vital signs and lab results from my latest physical – as well as self-estimates of my health, mood, and quality of my relationships. It's also true that over the years the age estimates have seemed intuitively correct and corresponded with information from my health providers.

So, I'll take 62 and a few months, though if I really were 62, I'd have to work for three more years to retire, and I'm not in the market for a time machine! On a more serious note, we all come to terms eventually with the fact that not only are we not going to live forever, but we're also not going to be healthy forever, so we want to keep that streak of good health going if we can, because in the end it's a gift. We don't want to end up like Tithonus in Greek mythology, who was granted eternal life, but not eternal youth. Chronic illness aside, this often involves making a bargain with your body.

When I actually was 62, I quit distance running. With interruptions at various points in my life, I had been distance running since the age of 19, and I loved the way my minimum of four to five miles a day kept me healthy and gave me that runner's high. But in my early sixties I started to experience more sprains and bruises. After consulting my doc, I realized that if I kept running I would need knee surgery. So, I decided that I would find less risky alternatives to running – swimming, walking, snowshoeing, kayaking, biking. That's what I mean by bargaining with your body.

Of course, in another way entirely, I still think that I'm 18. Sometimes this occurs when I lift a heavy object, and my back tells me forcibly to stop doing that. Other times, it's my surprise at looking in the mirror, seeing this old bald guy looking back at me, and wondering who he is.

But I know that there's one way in which I am quite young, and that's the intuitive optimism I learned from my mother, who died in 2017 at 94 and was still climbing mountains at 86. From her, I learned always to look forward to what the new day might bring. I don't mean this in a Pollyanna way: like most older people, she had plenty of dark things happen in her life, as have I, but she made it her practice to bounce back from adversity, and in this way, I am my mother's son.

So, the show goes on, with something new and unexpected every day. I'm 70, or 62, or 18, or all the above, and I'm looking forward to what the day brings to my door. At whatever your stage of life, I hope you feel the same way.

From the Social Media Coordinator

We are looking to enrich our media sites (Facebook/web page). To do that we would like Ferris emeriti to submit pictures, stories and information about things that Emeriti are doing. People that have them can email them to me or upload them onto our Facebook page. In either case a description of the activity should be included. Thanks,

MaryKay MacIver

FSUEA SCHOLARSHIP ENDOWMENT UPDATE

Thanks to the generosity of my fellow emeriti, as of October 1, 2018, the Emeriti Scholarship fund contained just under $72,000 in donations and accrued interest. We awarded our second $1,000 scholarship to Alan Marine, a student in the College of Business. He is in the Professional Golf Management program and is on internship in California so he was unable to attend our fall luncheon. To be eligible for an award from our endowment, a student must be a returning undergraduate Ferris student (in any college or department) who demonstrates financial need (as determined by the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid) and who has a minimum GPA of 3.25. We are awarding scholarships to students in the undergraduate colleges in alphabetical order. Next year, we will award a scholarship to a student in the College of Education and Human Services.

Our stretch goal is to get enough money in the fund ($125,000) to grant a $1,000 award to a student in each undergraduate college every year. The Ferris Futures matching program continues through June 30, 2022 so we are in sight of our goal. In pursuit of this goal, we are once again conducting our annual "bucket campaign" the first two weeks in December. The donations we get will be bundled to get a match from the Ferris Futures Challenge fund. If you are so inclined, please write a check to the Ferris Foundation with the words Ferris Emeriti Scholarship Endowment in the memo line. Bring your check to the Emeriti Holiday Dinner on December 9, 2018 at 2 Hats Ranch, or mail your check to the address below:

Bob Carter, Chair FSUEA Fundraising Committee

Once again, FSU Emeriti are invited to join the United Way campaign, and have your contribution be counted toward the university's goal. You should have received a letter from FSUEA United Way Co-Chairs Jerena Keys and Robert Friar. This year, the university goal is $60,000.00. Please mail your check made out to Mecosta Osceola Area United Way to Jerena Keys, 203 W. Pine Street, Big Rapids, MI 49307, and she will take it in to be counted as an emeriti donation toward the university goal. The campaign ends November 9, but the university will accept donations to the end of the year.
