At this point in her career Morgan is looking into practicing with a partner so she can be actively involved in private practice with multiple doctors. If he was picking these types of practices because, with the conditions we see most frequently, our patients long needed care that could only be provided by a team.

Ellie is from Novi, MI and completed her undergraduate education. Michael Ruthven and Ellie Rose first met when Michael attended his orientation at MCO. Ellie was a second-year student when they first met. As soon as they knew they were accepted, they canceled their plans to visit other universities. They live a very active life and settle down after a long day of eyeballs and other troubleshooting issues. Michael said, "It is one of the best things about being in optometry. You get to see people every day and help them feel better."

Two White Coat Ceremonies were held this winter honoring our first and second year students at critical milestones of their education. Luis Balderas and Morgan Baker were among the students honored.

Kim found it stimulating to learn about how investing in one's marriage is more important than investing in various insurance policies. Or as Morgan proposed, each person needs to invest in their own future by taking care of themselves and their family.

The Ferris Foundation at (231) 591-5852 or MCO would like to thank Dr. Sean Connolly and his wife for their generous donation of a dermis and skin bag

Thoughts from the Dean

- Dr. Paul Hodge, alum of the OSU College of Optometry with the intent of furthering the development of the optometric profession in Michigan, said, "In fact, MCO is casually known as 'Planet O' to its faculty and staff."

- Dr. Michael Keating, a professor at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, said, "We are very excited about the collaborations we have with the University of Michigan and other institutions in the area."

- Dr. Tracy Walling, the director of the Eye Center beginning spring semester 2015, said, "We are very excited about the possibilities that come with the new building and the opportunity to serve our community in a new way."

- Dr. Sarah Hinkley, due to outstanding leadership activities of Dandy Walker Syndrome in a Pediatric Psychology Program, said, "We have the potential to do that."

In collaboration with VRI a website was created titled "Dandy". It includes: a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Association, a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Foundation, and a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Research Organization.

The scholarship will be awarded annually to students, faculty, and staff who have demonstrated leadership qualities.

Thoughts from the Faculty

- Dr. Sarah Hinkley, due to outstanding leadership activities of Dandy Walker Syndrome in a Pediatric Psychology Program, said, "We have the potential to do that."

- Dr. Michael Keating, a professor at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, said, "We are very excited about the collaborations we have with the University of Michigan and other institutions in the area."

- Dr. Tracy Walling, the director of the Eye Center beginning spring semester 2015, said, "We are very excited about the possibilities that come with the new building and the opportunity to serve our community in a new way."

- Dr. Sarah Hinkley, due to outstanding leadership activities of Dandy Walker Syndrome in a Pediatric Psychology Program, said, "We have the potential to do that."

In collaboration with VRI a website was created titled "Dandy". It includes: a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Association, a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Foundation, and a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Research Organization.

The scholarship will be awarded annually to students, faculty, and staff who have demonstrated leadership qualities.

Thoughts from the Faculty

- Dr. Sarah Hinkley, due to outstanding leadership activities of Dandy Walker Syndrome in a Pediatric Psychology Program, said, "We have the potential to do that."

- Dr. Michael Keating, a professor at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, said, "We are very excited about the collaborations we have with the University of Michigan and other institutions in the area."

- Dr. Tracy Walling, the director of the Eye Center beginning spring semester 2015, said, "We are very excited about the possibilities that come with the new building and the opportunity to serve our community in a new way."

- Dr. Sarah Hinkley, due to outstanding leadership activities of Dandy Walker Syndrome in a Pediatric Psychology Program, said, "We have the potential to do that."

In collaboration with VRI a website was created titled "Dandy". It includes: a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Association, a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Foundation, and a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Research Organization.

The scholarship will be awarded annually to students, faculty, and staff who have demonstrated leadership qualities.

Thoughts from the Faculty

- Dr. Sarah Hinkley, due to outstanding leadership activities of Dandy Walker Syndrome in a Pediatric Psychology Program, said, "We have the potential to do that."

- Dr. Michael Keating, a professor at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, said, "We are very excited about the collaborations we have with the University of Michigan and other institutions in the area."

- Dr. Tracy Walling, the director of the Eye Center beginning spring semester 2015, said, "We are very excited about the possibilities that come with the new building and the opportunity to serve our community in a new way."

- Dr. Sarah Hinkley, due to outstanding leadership activities of Dandy Walker Syndrome in a Pediatric Psychology Program, said, "We have the potential to do that."

In collaboration with VRI a website was created titled "Dandy". It includes: a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Association, a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Foundation, and a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Research Organization.

The scholarship will be awarded annually to students, faculty, and staff who have demonstrated leadership qualities.

Thoughts from the Faculty

- Dr. Sarah Hinkley, due to outstanding leadership activities of Dandy Walker Syndrome in a Pediatric Psychology Program, said, "We have the potential to do that."

- Dr. Michael Keating, a professor at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, said, "We are very excited about the collaborations we have with the University of Michigan and other institutions in the area."

- Dr. Tracy Walling, the director of the Eye Center beginning spring semester 2015, said, "We are very excited about the possibilities that come with the new building and the opportunity to serve our community in a new way."

- Dr. Sarah Hinkley, due to outstanding leadership activities of Dandy Walker Syndrome in a Pediatric Psychology Program, said, "We have the potential to do that."

In collaboration with VRI a website was created titled "Dandy". It includes: a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Association, a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Foundation, and a website for the Dandy Walker Syndrome Research Organization.

The scholarship will be awarded annually to students, faculty, and staff who have demonstrated leadership qualities.