SECTION 3: SPECIAL CONSIDERATION INSTRUCTIONS

Occasionally, changes occur in a student's personal life that may warrant re-evaluation of their financial aid eligibility. If these changes have resulted in a significant reduction of your total family income since 2021, you may submit a Request for Special Consideration. The most common examples of circumstances that may warrant reconsideration have been listed within this form. Please note that filing a Special Consideration Request does not guarantee that the student will be awarded additional financial aid. At best, Special Consideration Requests may result in the student receiving the maximum subsidized loan and/or Pell Grant.

Prior to making changes to your FAFSA, federal regulations require that the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid must first verify that your initial FAFSA was filed correctly through a process called verification. Your Special Consideration Request will not be processed until after verification is complete.

To complete the verification process, you must:

- Complete and submit the 2023-2024 Dependent Verification form and provide 2021 tax documentation as listed in the tax documentation section of the form.
- Complete and submit the 2023-2024 Special Consideration form, along with a signed, detailed letter from the parent(s) explaining the reason for the request.
- Provide current income information: If your Special Consideration Request is approved, the Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid must provide FAFSA with accurate income information from all sources. The type of documentation may vary, depending on the time of the year that the change occurred. For example, if a parent lost his or her job in December, 2021 and has not regained employment, the parent's 2022 federal tax return would accurately reflect the reduction of income. A copy of that tax return could be provided to show current income. If the job loss occurred in 2022, the most recent (or final) pay stubs, with year to date totals for both parents, along with unemployment benefit statements for the unemployed parent would allow us to calculate estimated income for 2022.

DO NOT submit a Special Consideration Request if any of the following circumstances apply to you:

- The total family income for 2022 or 2023 will be more than it was in 2021.
- You have not filed a FAFSA for 2023-2024.
- Your Expected Family Contribution (EFC) is zero, as indicated on your Student Aid Report from FAFSA.
- Your total family income has NOT been reduced.
- The change of circumstance is based solely on increased debt or filing bankruptcy proceedings.

Please note that incomplete forms or failure to submit sufficient documentation may result in the denial of your Special Consideration Request. Please allow 10 business days from the date in which all requested documentation has been submitted for processing.
