MESSAGE FROM FERRIS STATE UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT DAVID EISLER AND THE FERRIS FOUNDATION BOARD CHAIR KEVIN CROSS

Many things have changed in the 130 years since Woodbridge and Helen Ferris founded this great university. But one core value has remained resolute: our founders' vision to provide opportunities for students who, in turn, will "make the world better."

Ferris State University is challenged every day to meet this extraordinary ideal, and it is our privilege and responsibility to meet that challenge through the work of the Ferris Foundation. Your generosity makes possible scholarships for deserving students who might not otherwise be able to continue their educational pursuits. Your financial support creates exciting opportunities for our dedicated faculty and staff to study, explore and serve the university community and beyond.

In 2013, The Ferris Foundation awarded five merit grants that fueled enhanced learning experiences, from technology-centered calculus instruction to enrichment of a biotechnology academy for high school students interested in STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) careers. Grants also helped fund a collaborative research project on treatment for diabetic retinopathy and two initiatives that celebrate the university's focus on global culture.

On the following pages, you will find stories about people whose lives have been positively impacted by their Ferris experience and have chosen to, in the words of alumna Sandra Strandberg, "pay it forward." Strandberg created an endowment for undergraduates who want to care for animals (see page 7), and fellow alumni John and Mary Garvelink established one for the HVACR program that supports capital projects and scholarships to meet that industry's demand for highly-skilled employees (see page 5).

We share how the strong work of partners in Grand Rapids made possible our efforts to restore the former Federal Building to its original magnificence. Now known as the Woodbridge N. Ferris Building, this restoration would not have been possible without the support of the Dan and Pamella DeVos Foundation, and the Meijer and Wege foundations. Building on this success, Kate Pew Wolters helped the Urban Institute for Contemporary Arts become a part of Ferris' Kendall College of Art and Design (see page 11).

You can also learn about the university's RLA Opportunity Scholarship and how an anonymous gift is making a critical difference in the lives of students whose Tuition Incentive Program funding will be reduced for their third and fourth years of study (see page 9).

As we reflect on 2013 and look forward to the new year, please accept our heartfelt thanks for assuring a promising future for our students. You have helped to create extraordinary opportunities for students whose education and experience at Ferris will be a rewarding return on your investment. We encourage you to continue this success by giving your proudest gift to Ferris State University.

GARVELINKS GIVE BACK THROUGH ENDOWMENT, SERVICE

John and Mary Garvelink believe they are “one of the world’s happiest and most blessed couples.”

They met at Ferris State on June 17, 1970, in Professor Bob Knox’s psychology class. John (ET ’71) was working toward his associate degree in Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Technology, and Mary (EHS ’72) was studying secondary education.

“I knew immediately I was going to marry him,” Mary said.

‘We have always loved the joy of learning.’

— Alumni John and Mary Garvelink

The ceremony was held two years later, just after graduation.

They lived in Colorado Springs, Colo., where John was serving in the U.S. Army and working evenings and days off for a local mechanical contractor. Mary found a teaching position. But in 1975, they were given the opportunity to start their own mechanical contracting business.

Today, Commercial Design Engineering has 90 employees and additional offices in Grand Junction, Colo., and Cheyenne, Wyo. Mary serves as president, and John is executive vice president.

Their reputation in the industry resulted in John’s election to national president of the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors Association and to chairman of NATE, the industry’s national service technician certification program, both in 1997. In 2004, Mary was the first woman elected president of PHCC. She also served on the World Plumbing Council in 2006.

Both are members of the PHCC Educational Foundation.

The Garvelinks attribute their success to a few factors. Just weeks after they were married, Mary began to experience the early symptoms of multiple sclerosis. She wasn’t formally diagnosed until 1976, but her health necessitated work in a controlled environment, and they never had children. The couple buried themselves in their business, and it grew.

“We were given a bump in the road, but through many people’s prayers and God’s grace, we have lived fuller, more active and love-filled lives than either of us ever could have dreamed,” Mary said. “One of the best things about being business partners is that we have been able to work together. We have always had a strong work ethic and sense of responsibility.”

They treasure their employees — many of whom have worked for CDE for more than 20 years — and their customers. The company’s motto is “The only reason we are in business is to create a happy customer.”

“My grandfather posted the saying in his sheet metal shop,” John said. “My family also taught me (to) always follow the dream that God has placed in your heart and mind.”

That dream originated when John was a student at Ferris.

“The Ferris experience was one of confidence-building as a result of the dedicated professors and the HVAC labs equipped with the most model equipment,” he said. “The technology department, commingled with the many other academic disciplines in one campus setting, was witness that each of us has a part to play, and when we work together, all things are possible.”

One of his HVAC professors, Dick Shaw, was influential in the Garvelinks’ lives.

“He planted the seed in John’s mind of what John could do with his degree,” Mary said. “Dick also was the person who introduced The Ferris Foundation to us.”

Mary serves on the foundation’s board of directors, along with Shaw. The foundation’s mission to provide opportunities for students is why the Garvelinks chose to create an endowment to support capital projects and scholarships for the university’s HVACR program.

“Our industry is responsible for clean water, sanitation and the comfortable environment that is enjoyed in the U.S.,” Mary said. “It’s been said our industry is responsible for saving more lives than modern medicine.

“Ferris is in a unique position to help meet the need for these positions. The university will be viewed as the ‘go-to’ education facility for qualified and highly skilled employees. We have always loved the joy of learning. We want to help young people to develop their God-given skills to the greatest extent possible.”

Pay it Forward” is a philosophy that Dr. Sandra Strandberg preaches and practices.

The concept of encouraging acts of kindness is second nature for the Ferris State University alumna, whose gratefulness for her own opportunities in life prompted her to make financial contributions that will make others’ life journeys easier.

Strandberg has created an endowment fund to provide scholarships for undergraduates at Ferris who want to care for animals. The Sandra Kay Strandberg Endowed Scholarship will be awarded annually to students working toward a Bachelor of Science in Biology (Pre-Veterinary Medicine) in the university’s College of Arts and Sciences.

“Animals provide unconditional love,” Strandberg said. “We need to take care of them.”

The endowment for future veterinarians is just one way she is helping to ensure that care.

Five years ago, Strandberg opened the Pay It Forward Animal Outreach Veterinary Clinic in Muskegon, a nonprofit that provides low-cost vaccines and basic veterinary care to families suffering from financial hardship.

The walk-in clinic, at 90 S. Seaway Drive, was named after the 2000 movie “Pay It Forward” starring Hayley Joel Osment as a young boy who launches a goodwill movement for a school assignment. In the spirit of paying it forward, the clinic also offers community networking options and a pet food bank.

Strandberg is proud of the clinic, which has served more than 6,500 Muskegon-area families since its inception. She and another veterinarian and staff members provide vaccinations, heartworm tests, urinalysis, ear exams, flea, tick and heartworm preventatives; they refer clients to the West Michigan Spay and Neuter Clinic for low-cost surgeries and to Grand Rapids-area animal centers for low-cost dental care and more extensive medical care.

‘I appreciate the time, the employment, the instructors and the education that Ferris provided me.’ — Alumna Sandra Strandberg

“There is a tremendous need here,” Strandberg said. “I feel privileged I have been able to help meet that need.”

Strandberg was born and raised in Muskegon; she and her husband, Floyd, a retired educator, graduated from Reeths Puffer High School together.

“I dreamed of being a veterinarian since I was 5 years old, but there were no women in veterinary medicine then, so I was encouraged to go into nursing,” said Strandberg, who graduated from Hackley School of Nursing in Muskegon in 1970.

During the next 20 years, Strandberg moved to Big Rapids, where she worked as a nurse, served a three-year stint with her husband as residence hall directors in Ferris’ Henderson and Brophy/McNerney halls, earned a degree in Allied Health Teacher Education, taught classes at the university and had two children.

When her son started college in 1987, she returned to school, too, earning an associate’s degree in Pre-Veterinary Medicine from Ferris. In 1994, at age 44, she earned a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree from Michigan State University.

“I feel very privileged and grateful that I had the opportunity to work as a nurse, then go back to school and realize my dream of being a veterinarian,” she said.

In 2002, she and her husband returned to Muskegon to be closer to family.

“When people ask me where I went to school, I always say

Ferris,” said Strandberg, who also has donated to various Muskegon County charities “dear to my heart.” “I raised my children in Big Rapids — I consider Big Rapids our home. The endowment was an opportunity for me to say, ‘hey, I appreciate the time, the employment, the instructors and the education that Ferris provided me.’”

Rick Kurtz, dean of Ferris’ College of Arts and Sciences, said Strandberg’s endowment for students majoring in Pre-Veterinary Medicine is inspiring.

“Ferris State University has many bright, eager young adults who are often financially challenged,” Kurtz said. “It is because of the passion and generosity of alumni like Sandi that we are able to help provide a pathway to success for current and future generations of Ferris students.”

GENEROSITY OF ANONYMOUS DONOR CREATES OPPORTUNITY FOR DESERVING STUDENTS

A rlean Pollard will graduate from Ferris State University armed with the knowledge needed to realize her dream of helping others as a professional social worker. Michael Bradford's experience as a Bulldog will put him well on the way to a career in forensics, a goal since his sophomore year of high school.

'Words can't express how grateful I am to have received this scholarship.'

— Student Michael Bradford

Their dedication to the pursuit of higher education was never the issue. Paying for it was.

But the generosity of a donor who wishes to remain anonymous has made it possible for Pollard and Bradford to complete their Ferris educations.

The RLA Opportunity Scholarship provides additional support to juniors and seniors enrolled in Michigan's Tuition Incentive Program. TIP is a state-funded effort that supplies eligible students with assistance in two phases: Phase I covers tuition for students in an associate degree program, up to 24 credit hours per academic year; Phase II provides $1,000 per year to students who want to further their education and obtain a bachelor's degree. The RLA scholarship helps fill in the funding gap.

"Without the scholarship I am not sure if I would have been able to complete my senior year," said Pollard, a Detroit native working toward a Bachelor of Social Work. "I exhausted all of my loans, and because my family is low-income, I am not able to depend on them for financial assistance."

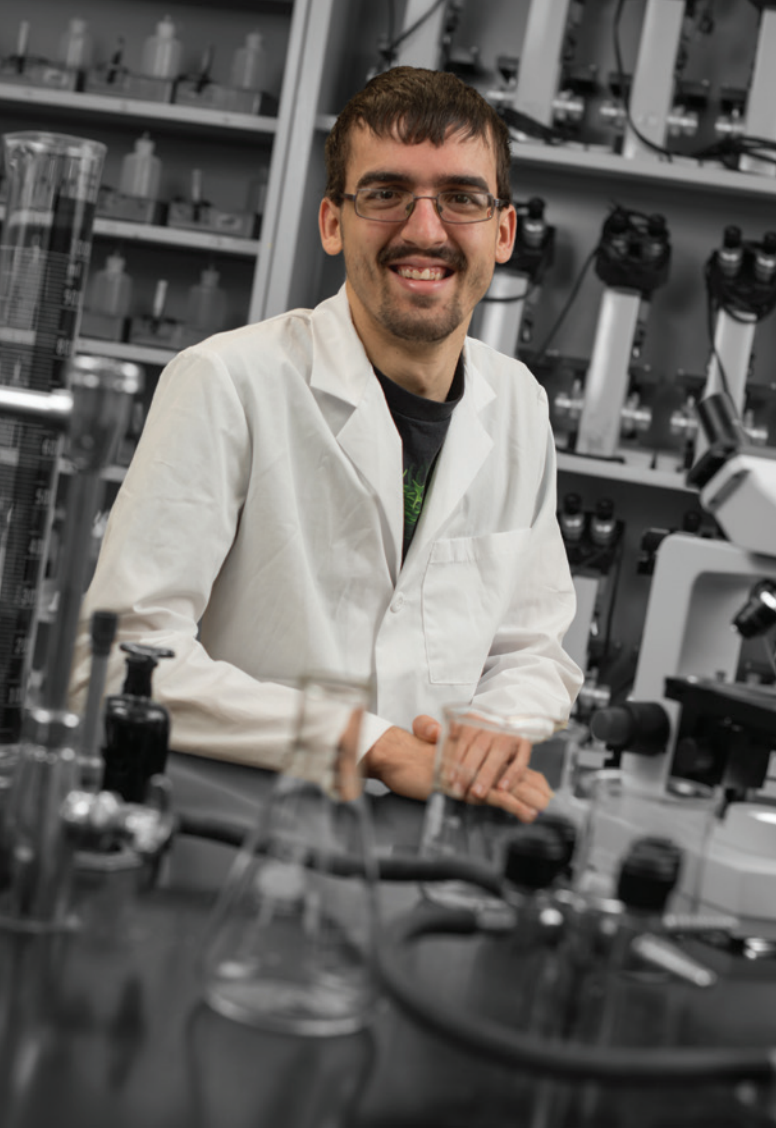

The state's TIP incentive mirrors Ferris' mission to provide opportunity, and the university's range of associate degrees makes it an attractive option for students. Many choose to "ladder" their two-year degree into a four-year course of study, but accrue significant debt after all financial aid is applied.

"Since there could be as much as a $7,700 decrease in the amount of money awarded to students transitioning from Phase I to Phase II, the RLA Opportunity Scholarship helps minimize this reduction in state assistance," said Kristine

Workman, a specialist in the university's Office of Scholarships and Financial Aid. "This scholarship prevents students from having to borrow money in the form of federal loans to help them with their educational costs and, therefore, keep down their overall loan debt as they graduate from the institution."

RLA Opportunity Scholarships will be awarded annually to qualifying students to augment TIP funds. Students must have a cumulative GPA of at least 2.75, an unmet financial need and be in good standing.

"Ferris State University enrolls more than 1,100 Tuition Incentive Program students — far more than any other university in Michigan," said President Eisler. "This reflects our strong commitment to opportunity and our belief that there is no better pathway out of the cycle of economic poverty than a Ferris education. The RLA Opportunity Scholarship is a powerful bridge of support from the associate degree covered by TIP to a bachelor's degree."

Michael Bradford

Pollard and Bradford are among 24 students awarded RLA scholarships for the 2013-14 academic year.

“Words can’t express how grateful I am to have received this scholarship,” said Bradford, of Petersburg, Mich., who worked all summer to pay for school but was still significantly short. “I wasn’t sure if I would have been able to afford my last year of school ... I was beyond worried. The scholarship provided the money I needed, and I was able to focus solely on school.”

Bradford, who will graduate in May with a Bachelor of Science in Forensic Biology, has been applying to graduate programs to earn a master’s in forensic science. His educational aspirations don’t end there.

“I plan on getting my Ph.D. in hopes of becoming a medical examiner for either a state or federal department,” said Bradford, who credits Ferris with a “wonderful” college experience filled with myriad opportunities and “amazing people.”

Pollard, who also plans to attend graduate school to pursue a master’s degree, was inspired by her mother to study social work.

“My mom loves to help others, but she didn’t have the education to make it a career,” Pollard said. “My mother has always encouraged me to get an education, and I see how important it is and how many more people I can help.”

Pollard is grateful for the opportunity the RLA scholarship is affording her.

“I would like to thank the donor from the bottom of my heart, because without (his or her) generosity I may not have been able to follow my dreams and put myself in a position to help others.”

THE ART OF GIVING: KEY DONORS ADVANCE GRAND RAPIDS INITIATIVES

The Woodbridge N. Ferris Building, nestled in the heart of downtown Grand Rapids, stands as a tribute to a man who believed in opportunity and as a great symbol of Ferris State University's commitment to West Michigan.

It also is tangible evidence of the exemplary stewardship of the city's vibrant arts community by committed donors who helped turn the historic landmark into a bustling hub for arts education and sustainable design.

The beautifully renovated former Federal Building is an important addition to the university's Kendall College of Art and Design, as is acquisition of Michigan's largest contemporary arts center. The Urban Institute for Contemporary Arts, now a wholly owned subsidiary of the fast-growing art and design school, adds a sixth building to Ferris' Grand Rapids campus.

Neither resource would have been possible without the generous financial support of major donors to this university project: the Daniel and Pamella DeVos Foundation, the Meijer and Wege foundations, and Kate Pew Wolters.

The DeVos Foundation gift also supports KCAD's new Fashion Studies program, named the Pamella Roland DeVos School of Fashion in the Grand Rapids native's honor.

"The extraordinary support of these major donors to provide new and exciting opportunities for students and the West Michigan community is a heartfelt lesson in the art of giving," said President Eisler.

Enrichment of the city's cultural life and viable arts infrastructure is at the heart of each donor's philanthropic legacy. Each has a community-focused commitment to West Michigan, and their partnership with Ferris State University reflects just that.

Symbol of collaboration

These donors are not only partners, but friends. One of them is Ellen Satterlee, who represents visionary and long-time philanthropist Peter Wege as CEO of the Wege Foundation. The foundation's generous gift granted the project credibility and a connection to the community.

"Everything Peter is passionate about is exemplified in that building," Satterlee said.

Dedicated in 1911, the five-story Beaux Arts structure has served as a courthouse, post office and home for the Grand Rapids Art Museum. It has been recognized on the National Register of Historic Places since 1974.

Kendall College of Art and Design President David Rosen, Pamella Roland DeVos and Ferris State University President David Eisler stand by the School of Fashion's commemorative plaque.

Wege, a Grand Rapids native, endeavored to restore the deteriorating building to its former glory after GRAM moved to its new location in 2007. That effort never came to fruition. When Satterlee presented him with Ferris' proposal to renovate all five floors in accordance with federal and state preservation standards, incorporate sustainability into the KCAD curriculum and, most importantly, to seek LEED certification of the building, Wege's interest was piqued.

"The five pillars that we support are the arts, education, the environment, health and community service, and this project meets many of those missions," Satterlee said. "The timing was right, the organizational components and leadership were there — Peter's all about identifying leadership, and Ferris has that in (Eisler and KCAD President David Rosen). That's why we were passionate about it."

The building's fourth floor houses the Wege Center for Sustainable Design, the cornerstone of KCAD's environmental education effort to teach sustainability in art and design for all students, regardless of their major.

"This program is brilliant," Satterlee said. "The students who graduate from Kendall will have a richer, deeper, broader education because of it. How different our world could be ..."

Since it opened in May 2013, the building has garnered multiple industry awards, including the Governor's Award for Historic Preservation and the Michigan Historic Preservation Network award. The U.S. Green Building Council also awarded KCAD LEED Gold Certification for the renovation.

The building was renamed in May by Ferris' Board of Trustees to honor Michigan's 28th governor, U.S. senator and the university's founder. Last fall, the Woodbridge N. Ferris Building hosted an exhibition entered in ArtPrize, the international art exhibition and competition that attracts hundreds of thousands of people to downtown Grand Rapids each fall. KCAD captured several top juried awards and was named Outstanding Venue.

Its preservation is a symbol of true collaboration and the good such a partnership can accomplish.

"The Meijer Foundation was thrilled to provide support to such an ambitious and innovative project," said Stacie Behler, who represents the foundation established by the late businessman and community philanthropist Fred Meijer. "We congratulate Ferris State University for its significant efforts to restore one of our city's oldest buildings and contribute to the important investments taking place in downtown Grand Rapids."

Fashion forward

Dan and Pamella DeVos also are community-focused philanthropists who have a strong heart for their hometown and invest in partnerships with positive impact.

The building is a nostalgic site for Pamella, who dedicated her time as a volunteer and chaired board meetings there when it housed the Grand Rapids Art Museum. She recalls many precious hours spent setting up exhibits and planning fundraising events with her mother as participants on the GRAM Women's Committee.

"I have fond memories of the numerous hours I volunteered in this building, many of which were alongside my mother," she said. "Restoration of a key downtown anchor brings new life to a beloved and historically significant building in our city, while also helping to raise the visibility and influence of Kendall's Fashion Studies program within the community and beyond."

Pamella Roland DeVos is an accomplished artist and entrepreneur whose New York-based pamella roland designs grace the runway and the red carpet. Her name is a powerful brand in the fashion world, and the DeVos Foundation's investment presents extraordinary opportunities for aspiring fashion design students as well as the West Michigan community.

Housed in the Ferris Building, the Pamella Roland DeVos School of Fashion is poised to become a national leader in fashion education. Its Fashion Studies bachelor's degree program includes an annual fashion show, speaker series and collaborative projects with designers and retailers. Roland DeVos also facilitated a partnership with the prestigious Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City that will allow students to complete their final year of study in the heart of the fashion industry.

"This partnership with KCAD allowed me to share my passion for fashion design by investing in the next generation of designers and to provide an opportunity to grow the fashion industry in West Michigan," she said.

Ferris President David Eisler introduces Stacie Behler, vice president of Corporate Communications and Public Affairs for Meijer, during the Woodbridge N. Ferris Building grand opening celebration.

Philanthropist and arts advocate Kate Pew Wolters is president of the Kate and Richard Wolters Foundation.

Commitment to culture

Confidence in Ferris' commitment to the arts in West Michigan also is evident in the recent merger of KCAD with the Urban Institute for Contemporary Arts. Ferris partnered with philanthropist and arts advocate Kate Pew Wolters to inspire community support for the struggling organization.

Despite its new $8 million home just blocks from KCAD, UICA's expenses outpaced income during tough economic times, and it was in danger of closing. However, Eisler and Rosen recognized UICA's value to the city and its natural affinity with Ferris' prized art and design school, and sought to save it.

Wolters, a long-time supporter of the arts in Grand Rapids and of UICA, in particular, not only made a significant gift of her own but rallied several private donors to make this exceptional merger with KCAD possible. UICA's renewal means the continuation and enhancement of cutting-edge exhibitions of work by regional, national and international artists, special events and community collaborations, and films in the city's only downtown theater.

"From my perspective, UICA rounds out the arts and culture offerings we have in West Michigan, and it was such a natural fit to align with Kendall and Ferris," Wolters said. "They understand what UICA is about and why it's important for the community. When art is a part of life, it rounds out the dimensions of humanity. My hope for this partnership is that it will continue to elevate the local arts community and expose West Michigan to contemporary forms of art and culture.

"That's why I got behind this partnership. I support things that lift up our community."

Philanthropy, after all, is the art of giving.

FISCAL YEAR 2013

The fiscal year ending June 30, 2013 resulted in significant milestones for The Ferris Foundation. At the end of June 30, the foundation market value grew to $41.4 million, its highest level since inception. The endowment position of these assets grew to $40.2 million. The Ferris Foundation received a large gift totaling $611,556 during FY13 from the David Wolcott Kendall Memorial School Foundation, with a number of new endowments created to support the work of Kendall College of Art and Design. As of June 30, 2013, The Ferris Foundation endowment was made up of 353 individual endowed funds, which also is a new milestone.

In addition, the foundation's investment returns as reported in the 2013 NACUBO-Commonfund Study of Endowments show favorable preliminary results. With the final report scheduled to be released in 2014, there are early indications that the one-year, three-year, five-year and 10-year returns for the foundation's investment portfolio are above the national average for each time frame.

The investment pool of the foundation is overseen by an active investment committee with the assistance of an independent investment advisor, Fund Evaluation Group. The foundation board has been receptive to changing its asset allocation on a regular basis to allow the portfolio to move into alternative and private asset categories.

The portfolio has typically outperformed similarly sized endowments in up markets and underperformed in down markets. The investment committee is working to mitigate some of the volatility in the pool by adding classes that have less correlation to the equity markets.

MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

You may have heard this already in many different ways, but it is worth repeating: it has been a pivotal year for Ferris State University. As executive director of the fundraising arm of the university, I want to thank those of you who have made financial and in-kind gifts to assist us in making a difference as we work together to improve quality of life for our students, employers and the communities we serve.

The Ferris Foundation is ready. We have assembled a group of highly skilled, experienced professionals who have made it their personal mission to ensure our success.

We have the right investment model in place. Even in times of volatile market environments, we have been relatively immune from the impact, enabling us to preserve the Foundation's assets and provide present-day funding that powers the people, places and programs that make this university great.

Private support will be the foundation of Ferris State University, even more so than it already is. I extend a heartfelt "thank you" to those who have already chosen to help us in our mission. We encourage others to join us by supporting our students, our university and the community in which we live.

Gratefully,

Carla B. Miller
Executive Director
The Ferris Foundation

STROSS ELECTED CHAIR OF BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Ferris State University welcomes Howard Stross as the new chair of The Ferris Foundation's Board of Directors.

The Ferris alumnus and founder of Stross Law Firm, P.A. in Oldsmar, Fla., was appointed to the board in

'Our No. 1 priority is to raise money to help students get an education.' — Howard Stross

2007. He takes the reins from Kevin Cross, who will serve as immediate past-chair.

Stross, a strong proponent of providing higher education opportunities, was just 21 when he returned from U.S. Army service in Vietnam. Ready to pursue his education, poor high school grades made getting into college a problem. Ferris State University was the only institution that would accept him.

"Ferris gave me a chance to prove myself," said Stross, a business major when he came to Big Rapids in January 1967. "I got a fantastic education there. My success in life is because of Ferris, and I'm thankful I have the opportunity to give back to the university now. It's quite an honor."

Though he transferred from Ferris to Western Michigan University in 1970, to be closer to his parents in Lawton, Mich., Stross is quick to point to the impact of his Ferris experience.

"I really care about this university," he said. "It is one of the best institutions in the country, and I mean that. When a student graduates from Ferris, he or she will have marketable skills."

Stross obtained a Bachelor of Business Arts (1970) and Master of Business Administration (1971) at Western before earning a Doctor of Jurisprudence from the University of Toledo in 1975. He has more than 35 years of legal experience in business law, estate planning, real estate and commercial property development.

Elected to a two-year term during the board's Nov. 1 meeting, Stross will lead its efforts to strengthen the university and provide opportunities for students. He views the foundation's role as key to affording students the opportunity to better themselves by providing financial support through scholarships.

The Ferris Foundation Board of Directors lost a “true Bulldog” with the untimely passing of one of its own.

David Drake, a Ferris alumnus and longtime board member, died May 19 following a battle with cancer. He was 63.

Drake, who graduated from Ferris in 1976 with a bachelor’s degree in Public Administration, joined the board in 2001. He served as chair from 2002 to 2004, and was voted in a special election to serve an additional year to complete a visioning process the board began in 2003.

During his tenure, Drake was a member of the Gifts and Grants committee and its chair from 2008 to 2011. He served on the board with Randy Phelps (B ’83), a fellow alumnus, friend and his business partner for 25 years. Together, they owned Universal Insurance Services (Wells Fargo) in Grand Rapids.

“Dave was a true Bulldog,” said Phelps. “He loved Ferris and took pride in serving the university.”

Drake was a well-respected, innovative businessman who supported several charitable causes and was particularly interested in supporting his alma mater to make it “a better place for students and faculty,” Phelps said.

“Dave really enjoyed his relationship with Ferris, the foundation board and everyone he encountered while serving,” he said. “It was one of his favorite things to do.”

He also loved to race cars and was a member of the Sports Car Club of America. He enjoyed fishing and flying remote-controlled airplanes, and “played golf better in the rain than he did when it was dry,” Phelps said.

Drake was a proud veteran of the U.S. Army and served during the Vietnam War. He was a member of the VFW.

Drake celebrated 34 years of marriage to his wife, Carol, and was the father of two sons, Steven and Michael. He and Carol (AH '76) established the need-based David W. and Carol A. Drake Endowed Scholarship for Ferris students in 2007.

“Dave was a great partner and an excellent insurance agent, a great family man and a great friend to many,” Phelps said. “He will be missed.”
