- I felt like I got the most out my experience because I got to work with multiple providers at different locations. Between dewitt and okemos I was seeing a variety of patients and learning how each doctor interacts and manages patient care. It was an amazing learning experience.
- This was a great rotation, with a great variety of patient encounters. It was a great experience
- Overall, I feel that Dewitt Optometry is a very well run private practice. All of the equipment is very up-to-date making exam flow and follow-up care a breeze. The support staff was extremely welcoming and friendly from the very first day! They were also great at explaining their side of a private practice office. I found this to be very helpful information and plan on carrying some of this advice into how I interact with my future staff. Thank you for everything!

- Dewitt Optometry was a great place to work. The variety of patients was what I needed since this is (and Okemos) was the only place I got to work with peds and contacts. The equipment is fantastic. And staff was great. Patient load was good. I liked how Dr. Dob and I had the same schedule so he and I would see each patient and he would allow me to do the work but watch and be available for questions. It made it easy for him to help me with trouble shooting because he wouldn't be with his own patient. This allowed me to get my timing down. Carefree was also a great place to work. It had great patient variety - disease, peds, normal exams. Dr. Koets allowed me to work on my own and I could ask him if I had any questions. This really allowed me to get efficient on my timing. Carefree has great equipment given that it is a non-profit. The staff was great to work with and they made it so much fun to work there, even in the downtime when patients no-showed. That is perhaps the only weakness ... the no show rate but I know the staff tried their hardest to schedule and remind patients, unfortunately it is just a consequence of the demographic that we serve at Carefree.

- I really enjoyed being at DeWitt. The clinic has excellent equipment and staff. I felt this was a great representation of what private practice optometry is like. There was a variety of patients: some peds, lots of soft CLs, general eye exam and some disease. One weakness is not having 100 percent your own schedule, but you still have adequate patient encounters.
- 2. A decent amount of patient encounters with the majority of the encounters focused on ocular disease. Good equipment like Optos and Optuvue iVue/ iFusion, paper charts making things easier. Support staff are knowledgeable and passionate about their work.
- 4. I absolutely loved this rotation. Throughout my time there, I was able to see a wide variety of patients including PC, PEDS, CL, and Ocular Disease which is something I loved and appreciated. The staff was also wonderful to work with! Overall, amazing site!
